

passing clouds

a breath released
and the window pane fogs a pair of lips are parted to the passing clouds and a horn honking in the distance seems a lifetime distant the after-rain morning stillness is stopped, is softened and gently slips away

morning serenity
and I am yours
for eternity